you're home

Message from the Principal:

What an amazing start to our school year! It has been amazing watching our students learn the new routines of their classroom, the new expectations their teachers are having for the year, and the joy that they bring every day to our school. We are hopeful that the students are coming home excited about the new year and wanting to share information with you about their day. Instead of asking your child, how was your day, you could try these instead: What was the funniest thing that happened today? Who made you smile today? What games did you play at recess? Which one of your teachers would survive a zombie apocalypse and why? Starting these conversations with your child will help to bring the school day to you.

I am trying to be more vigilant about posting things to our Facebook account, making it a major source of information. Many of you tuned into the night before school story, which gave me the idea that every Sunday evening I am going to post a new story to get the students back into the mind set of school. Please feel free to view this story and talk to your child(ren) about the coming week and set goals for things you would like to achieve together. As always, if you have any questions or concerns please reach out to me.

Last night we had our first PTO meeting. We planned lots of wonderful activities for our families and some fundraisers to support our school.

We would like to encourage you to attend a meeting and/or volunteer for some of these activities. More information soon to come.

We are sending home a survey today for your opinion on a winter carnival. Please fill it out and return it to school asap.

Our next meeting is September 24, 2019.

This Year's Theme

As I mentioned in last week's newsletter we are working on creating a "home" feeling for all of our students. One way that we are creating that is by building a positive classroom community. Each morning our teachers are having a Community Circle with their class, where they will ask a general question to the students and they will all have an opportunity to share. This gives the students a chance to learn about each other and also themselves and work on building their classroom community.

Self-controlled

If you have ever dreamed of being a part of our team, we do have a few openings still available and would love to add you to our team. We are looking for a few people who would want to come in and work as an ESL aid and help our students become more successful. These positions are 29 hours a week and we are flexible with making your start and end times for the day. We do want to make sure we get people who share the same focus on student success, so if this sounds like you... PLEASE stop by school, give us a call, or email Mr. Toll.
